Struggling to Teach Financial Education? The University of Arizona's Family Economics and Financial Education Project, in conjunction with the Missouri Educators of Family and Consumer Sciences (MoEFACS), invite you to attend this “Take Charge of Your Finances” training workshop.

The training will provide attendees the opportunity to experience the “Life in...United States” spending plan simulation, receive up-to-date content information, and receive ten ready-to-teach, activity-based financial education lesson plans. Participants will be rejuvenated with a plethora of new ideas guaranteed to make them want to begin teaching financial education immediately.

One (1) hour of graduate or undergraduate credit may be earned for the 2008 summer semester from Missouri State University at Springfield (MSU). All participants taking the session for credit must attend both days of the workshop, a one-hour follow-up session on Thursday July 24 from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m. at the conclusion of the conference, and complete course assignments. These assignments will be outlined in a syllabus to be sent to all workshop registrants with their workshop confirmation in early July. The cost for one hour of credit, graduate or undergraduate, is $179.00. Enrollment for credit will take place during the workshop registration on the first day of the session. Credit fees must be paid at time of enrollment. Payment can be paid by check or credit card.

All attendees (those taking for credit and those who are not) must pay the $110.00 workshop registration fee listed below and submit this form with their payment to the MoEFACS Treasurer.
